

EXTRAORDINARY OPEN CALL FOR RESIDENCY AT RANGØYA

An unexpected opportunity has opened up for a one-month residency at the Rangøya International Cultural Centre, available from November 21 to December 21, 2024. We welcome applications from individual writers or groups of up to four people. If you apply alone, you may share the space with other residents, although it is possible that the house could be all yours. We especially encourage applications from writers across different countries who wish to collaborate or share this experience.

Who Can Apply

Professional writers and translators who have at least one published literary work are eligible. Both individual and group applications (up to four people) are welcome. If applying solo, please note that other residents might join during the same period.

Residency Duration

Up to one month (shorter stays are possible).

Residency Details

Nestled on Rangøya island, near the stunning Atlantic Ocean Road in Averøy, Norway, the residency takes place in a spacious house featuring four bedrooms, two bathrooms, a shared kitchen, a cozy living room, and a small library. Each bedroom is equipped with a desk, and there is an additional separate working room. The nearest shop is located about 5 km away.

Resident Contributions

Residents may be invited to participate in local literary events or public readings. Blog entries or similar reflections about the residency are also encouraged.

Application procedure

Applications are submitted using the following online form:
